Dr. Patrick Prendergast
College Green
Dublin 2, Ireland

Dear Dr. Prendergast,

One of our members in Dublin was concerned about the sexist and gender biased posters found by his wife behind Trinity College toilet doors, which showed a young man leering over the shoulder of a young woman with the slogan "Know the difference between safe and sinister."

We applaud you for efforts to reduce the incidence of whatever it is you are trying to reduce, ostensibly something related to men doing something untoward to women, whether it be a disquieting leer or something more serious.

However, we would like to bring to your attention that men are similarly situated; thus, they too should be similarly warned. It is well established through a plethora of scientifically based research, antidotal reports, world history, great literature and common sense that women commit untoward and unsafe acts too, even against men; or, perhaps, especially against men.

Regardless, which gender does what to another is of little consequence here, especially since there are now over 50 recognized genders. However, it is safe to say that the two predominant ones are still male and female.

Please develop and deploy similar posters with a young woman posed over the shoulder of a young man and likewise situate them wherever are displayed the other posters.

Moreover, doing so will further assist your school in promoting gender safety while recognizing that men are humans too, and are abused by women, even sexually. To do nothing, as in nothing, is a disservice to everyone on campus, even visitors.

Respectfully,

Harry A. Crouch
